application an engine operated by heat from the sun's rays. The rays are concentrated upon a boiler from the concave surface of a looking-glass, 11 by 16 feet in size, the cost being reduced by using narrow strips of flat glass set up on a convex, which is so arranged as to constantly turn toward the sun. He is able to secure with it a steam pressure of thirty-five pounds. The engine has been in operation for three weeks under improvement, and it is now completed. It is intended chiefly for use in hot countries. The captain says that he has

The Editor's Friend.

Some supposed friends of a newspaper have peculiar ideas as to what kind of items a paper requires. Not long since a gentleman came into the sanctum of a Texas paper and said to the editor:
"Look here, you need a heap of live items. I'm on the streets all day. I'll come up every once in a while and post you.""All right; fetch on your item, but remember we want news."Next day he comes up, beaming all over, and puts a live item for the paper.
You know that infernal bow-legged gorilla of a brother-in-law of mine, who was in business here with you?""I believe I remember such a person," said the editor, wearily."Well, I've just got news from Nebraska, where he is living, that he is going to run for the Legislature. Now, just give him a blast. Lift him out of his boots. Don't spare him on my account."The editor shook his head and the news-gatherer retired.Next day he came up again. "My little item was crowded out. At least, I didn't see it in the paper. I brought you some more." And he handed in an item about a cat, as follows:
"A remarkable animal. The family cat of our worthy and distinguished fellow townsman Smith, who keeps the bloss grocery store of Ward No. 13 (beer always on tap), yesterday became the mother of five angularly-marked kittens. This is not the first time this unheard of event has taken place. We understand Mr. Smith is being favorably spoken of as a candidate for alderman."The editor groans in his spirit as he lights a cigar with the effort. It is not long before he hears that Smith is going around saying that he made the paper what it is, but it is not independent enough to suit the public.Many readers will say that this sketch is overdrawn, but thousands of editors all over the country will lift up their right hands to testify that they

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—[By the West-the mud flats of the bay near the Potrero, in the southern part of the city, a skeleton was found. This led to prospecting the locality for means to identify the bones, with the result that the next day another skeleton was unearthed, and to-day a large number of bones were brought to light. In the ghastly collection there are not less than seven skulls, and the femurs and tibiae of four represent the remains of fifteen persons. The locality where the bones were found is astray with tales of foul deeds and murder. The fact that two of the skulls have holes in them is believed to confirm such supposition.

Another theory is that they are the bones of pauper inmates of some public institution that have been dumped into the bay by men employed to bury them, as the easiest way of disposing of them.The fact that the bones were found in

ORGANIZED LABOR.

Proceedings of the Trades and Labor Convention at Columbus.COLUMBUS, Dec. 10.—[By the Western Associated Press.] The Trades Conference today instructed its committee to insist upon a settlement of the differences between the unions and the Knights of Labor upon the basis of a trades treaty, and Mr.
Daly, of the shoemakers, was added to the committee in place of President Welhe, of the amalgamated association. A fight was made on a political resolution. It was framed by Messrs. Kirshner and Block, and advocated the formation of a third party by the workmen, trades unions being particularly urged to take action looking in this direction. Several clauses regarding third parties were stricken out by a large majority, and the resolution, after being amended thoroughly, was adopted. Without lengthy preamble it reads:
Resolved, That this convention urge a most generous support to an independent political movement of workmen.
A resolution opposing the preference
the government is supposed to give ex-soldiers in the matter of employment, was killed, but another, asking Congress to pass a compulsory indenture law for the District of Columbia and the Territories, was adopted.
It was decided to make the night session continuous to the close. The conference resolved itself into a trades congress about 4 p.m., and some time was devoted to financial matters. When the congress adjourned it was understood that the conference of the trades would form an amalgamation, and that when the congress adjourns for this session it will be sine die, and no longer exist.
Chairman House of the Powderly committee reports tonight that their conference with the trades committee resulted in an understanding that negotiations on the basis of a trades union treaty was out of the question, and before the conference closed the trades union men talked very fairly and a tacit understanding was reached.
The conference to-night worked on the constitution, and adopted the new name
"The American Federation of Trades and Labor." It was decided to hold the next meeting in Baltimore. The conference will not adjourn till to-morrow morning.

NATIONAL NOTES.

THE OUTLOOK FOR THE SWEET WINE BILL.

Fortcoming Legislation on the Chinese Question—The Indemnity Bill to Have Precedence Over Restriction Measures.

By Telegraph to The Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—[By the Western Associated Press.] The Committee on Ways and Means took up the Sweet Wine Bill yesterday. The bill comes before the committee in this way: A bill to tax the fractional part of a gallon of liquor in barrels passed the House in the early part of the last session and was sent to the Senate. There the bill was amended by adding to it the sweet wine measure. In this amended form it went back to the House and was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means. Felton was present and urged upon the members of the committee that they concur in the Senate amendment, but the committee refused to grant the request of the Senate for a committee of conference. The report was made to the House, and the Speaker said he would appoint a committee of conference. In a short time a committee of three from the House and a like committee from the Senate will now take up the bill and try to come to some agreement about it. The Sweet Wine Bill is by no means in a hopeless condition. If proper work is done with the committee of conference, it is probable that they will recommend that the amendment be adopted. It seems that the law is just within the grasp of California wine-makers. There is no organized effort to defeat it, although there are a number of people not in favor of it.

THE PRESIDENT'S ILLNESS.
The President's continued illness is such as to cause his friends some alarm. A simple case of rheumatism, as his complaint is said to be, ought before this to have yielded to remedies. At Cleveland's age, with his habits of life, any disease of the blood may lead to serious consequences. He is kept out of sight of all callers, and the reports of his condition given out by Private Secretary Lamont are meager and unsatisfactory. Members of Congress, having important business with the President, are unable to see him, and vexatious delays result.

THE CHINESE QUESTION IN CONGRESS.
Perry Belmont said yesterday that he hoped to get up a Chinese restriction bill at this session, but he said that the Chinese Indemnity Bill must first pass. "I see that you had thirteen parties in your State at the last election," said he. Upon being informed that there was no division of opinion on that subject in California, he said he would do all he could to push the measure through the House. He feared that its progress might be retarded by too much talk on the part of its friends, as the time for its consideration would be limited.

A BIG SCHEME.
The Pacific Cable Company and its Great Expectations.

MONTREAL, Dec. 10.—[By the Western Associated Press.] Within the past month past strides have been made toward the Pacific cable scheme, and now there is every prospect that it will be an accomplished fact at an early day. Sanford Fleming, speaking of the matter, said: "A company has been formed under the name and title of 'The Pacific Telegraphic Company (Limited),' with a capital of $200,000,000, in 210 shares, for the purpose of establishing, maintaining and working telegraphic and other communications between Australia, New Zealand and other islands in the Pacific Ocean, and also with Africa and America. Articles of incorporation were registered in London within the present month. A subsidy of $200,000 per annum is expected from the home government, while it is expected that the various colonial governments will cooperate regarding this matter. Operations will not be commenced until all the governments interested are heard from."

Hopeful Outlook for Arizona.
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—Capt Henry M. Lawton, who commanded the troops which captured Geronimo in the late Apache campaign in Arizona, has arrived in this city. Capt. Lawton, in an interview, stated that the Indian question, as a disturbing element in Arizona, has been practically solved by the capture of Geronimo. It might be possible that the White Mountain band, consisting of various Apache tribes, might cause some trouble in the future, but at present confidence seems to have been restored to the people of Arizona, and there was not much doubt that the Territory would receive more settlers than it had done for several years past.

A Terrible Crime Explained.
CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—The Times' Greenville, S. C., special says: "Three negroes were lynched last night in Henderson, York county. William Goode, a white boy, aged 14, the son of a wealthy planter, discovered three negroes stealing his father's cotton. They turned upon him and beat him to death, and cutting his head off with their pocket-knives, threw it into the middle of the road. There it was found by some travelers, who tracked the murderers through the snow. They found three negroes, bloody, and taking them to the scene of the crime, hanged them."

Bold Robbery.
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—A bold robbery took place here, yesterday afternoon in broad daylight. As Mrs. Samuel Rainey, wife of the superintendent of the steam fire engines of the fire department, was walking down Clay street, near Stockton, with her purse in her hand, a Chinaman jumped out of a doorway, snatched the purse from her grasp and ran away making his escape. The bold highlander secured $40 in coin and a pair of earrings.

Schooners Ashore.
POINT ARENA, Dec. 10.—The schooner Elsie Iverson went ashore here last night. She will be a total loss. Part of the lumber on the schooner Hyde, which is also ashore, may be saved, but the cargo of posts, stakes and bark on the Elsie Iverson will be a total loss. The schooners are insured, but there is no insurance on the cargo. This is the heaviest loss that ever occurred in this harbor.

Off for Topolobampo.
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—The steamer Newburn, which sailed to-day for Mexican ports, took 50 emigrants for the new Socialistic colony at Topolobampo Bay, State of Sinaloa. The party was made up of farmers and laborers from the interior of this State and Oregon.

An Old Man Killed.
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—An Alameda local engine struck the wagon of Ziba S. Grier, 75 years old, an expressman, while it was being driven across the railroad track in Oak and. The old man was killed, and also one of the horses.

Threatened Strike.
NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—There is trouble on several of the street car lines here, and a strike is imminent on the Fourth avenue route. The trouble is said to be due to the discharge of men without notice or cause.

FOREIGN BUDGET.

A European War Predicted in the Near Future.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—[By the Western Associated Press.] A London cablegram says: "A European war is now definitely looked for. The commencement of hostilities is expected in January next at the latest, if the weather at that time should permit of military operations. The enormous scale necessary to carry out the plan of the campaign supposed to be decided on. It is generally believed that Russia hopes to be able to move by springing upon Austria without warning, after creating a sudden excuse for marching. Travelers returning here from Russia report extraordinary secrecy in military quarters and ceaseless movements of troops, carefully masked, to the German and Austrian frontiers and Bessarabia. Work on iron-clads is being pushed with feverish haste, and arsenals and navy-yards are reported to be working night and day. It is believed here that the situation is the deliberate creation of Bismarck."

LONDON, Dec. 10.—[By Cable.] A life boat has been wrecked at Southport while endeavoring to relieve a distressed vessel and thirteen persons were drowned.

CROP REPORTS.

Facts and Figures Furnished by the Department of Agriculture.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—[By the Western Associated Press.] The crop report of the Department of Agriculture says: "December returns average firm. Prices by counties show material reduction as compared with the value of the crops of '85, in wheat, rye and barley. Corn has made an advance nearly equivalent to the percentage of the reduction in quantity. Oats in sympathy with corn rather than with the small grain used for human food averages a slightly higher value than last year. The farm value of corn was 33 cents per bushel in December last. It is now 37 cents, 1 cent higher than the crop of 1884. The average for the previous 5 years was 44 1/2 cents, and for the 10 years prior to 1880 it was 42 1/2 cents. The average December price of wheat is 60 cents, a reduction of 8 cents from the average value of the last crop, and 45 cents above the price in 1884."

The Oil Market.
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 10.—The oil market took another tumble this morning, prices declining nearly 5 cents. There was no cause for the drop except the uncertain feeling prevailing which deters dealers from buying. The price reacted to 68 at noon.

MINING STOCKS.

ANOTHER DECLINE, FOLLOWED BY A RISE.

Heavy Sales of all the Favorites Reported—Arrest of a Bankrupt Broker on Charges of Crookedness—His Victims' Story.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—[By the Western Associated Press.] Stocks were weaker again this morning. Consolidated Virginia opened at $27, a drop of $5, closing at $27.25. Best & Belcher dropped, at the opening, to $8, and under heavy sales went to $7.75, but recovered at the close to $8.25, a loss of $4 on yesterday. Transactions in Gould & Curry and Ophir were the heaviest of the morning. The former, which closed last night at $6.75, opened to-day at $5.50, went to $3.25, and closed at $3.75. Ophir opened at a loss of $4.50, but recovered to $9, closing at $10. Closing quotations of others were: Chollar, $4; Crown Point, $4.50; Hale & Norcross, $4.10; Mexican, $4.25; Savage, $7.50; Sierra Nevada, $8.50; Utah, $8.25; Yuma, $8.25. The market for Potomac was the only one which showed any strength. It opened at $6.25, and notwithstanding heavy sales, increased to $7, at which it closed.

IMPROVEMENT IN THE MARKET.

The market steadily improved after the close of the morning session, and when the afternoon board came together prices went up with a rush and large sales. Some of the shares doubled in price from the figures of the morning session. Best & Belcher advanced from $7.75 to $15.75; Chollar showed a rise of $2.25 to $15.75. Consolidated Virginia rose $10 above the price at which it opened this morning, closing at $37; Gould & Curry followed the procession with an upward movement of $12.12; the closing figures of this morning, selling at $6.87; Ophir went up $8, closing at $15; Savage showed an advance of $3.25; the closing price being $12.75; Sierra Nevada more than doubled in value over the closing prices of the morning, which was $2.25; it rose to $8.25 and closed at $7.75, after sales of 3000 shares had been made.

Mr. Armstrong stated that he had been doing business for the complainants for some time prior to his failure, and that his indebtedness to them is probably about $100.

Mr. Lynch's Contest.

Mr. Lynch seriously objects to having anything about his proposed attempt to thwart the will of the people and burglarize a seat in Congress, published in any paper but his own. Very naturally, he accuses his contemporaries of trying to prejudice and prejudice the case. This would be important if true. The fact is, however, that the Herald is the only sheet which is trying to prejudice public sentiment and try the case out of the courts. It has been reprinting columns of stuff which might be called slush but for its malice—for the sole purpose of catching the sympathy and mistaken charity of the people. Mr. Lynch was not elected. He knows he was not elected, and the people know it, too. His only hope lies in the possibility that a Democratic House may be so crookedly partisan as to seat him anyhow, in the face of the people's clearly-expressed decision that they wished nothing of him. Mr. Lynch's hopes in this matter are selfish. The best men of his own party would not wish to see him now take the seat, even if he could. It takes little discernment to see what effect on the Democratic party in this section of the State such a brazen outrage would have. The American people are lovers of fair play—and if the Democratic managers work the above-named schemes, they will be laying up heaps of trouble for themselves in the saccharine subsequently. But no one is trying to choose the Akhond out of a chance to contest. He can contest early and often, but his grounds will be found untenable and his claim preposterous; and, furthermore, his attempt to manufacture sentiment in advance by ding-dang at the matter in his paper will be of no more use to him than an extra caudal appendage would to a canine.

The claim set up by Mr. Lynch that he was beaten by fraud is false and foolish. Whatever fraud there was—and that was probably more than a little—was perpetrated in his behalf. Take the White House precinct, for instance. It is a notorious fact that there was wholesale buying and selling of votes there, and fraudulent voting by the rod—and every such bought or colonized vote was for the ticket which had Mr. Lynch's name on.

The Herald is fond, too, of harping on the rejection, by County Clerk Dunsmore, of 183 illegals—registered names. It is a fact that some of these certificates—brought in by the Democratic deputies of that slick Democratic statesman, Assessor Bilderrain—were palpably forged. All were illegals obtained. The matter of rejecting them was settled by the Superior Court of this county, wherein a judge of unimpeachable and rigid justice fully upheld Mr. Dunsmore's course in refusing to accept these forged and illegals—obtained names. The Times published an exposé of that peculiarly crooked transaction when it occurred, and the matter is well understood by the public. The Herald's frantic wails will affect nothing.

It seems almost a wasteful prodigality of lung to discuss seriously Mr. Lynch's claims of fraud; and the only excuse for such discussion is that he shall not be able to claim that he published his wild-eyed assertions uncontradicted. The principal "rod" in the matter is Mr. Lynch himself.

Oranges—Florida and California.

The Florida Cultivator of a late issue contains the following:

"Major Fairbanks says that the whole crop being estimated at 100,000 boxes, seems probable that two-thirds of the crop will have been shipped before Christmas, at comparative low prices. The result will be general disappointment, and it is doubtful if the private information of the Editor, will bring any more than the same quantity for next year. We are thus losing the advantages we are entitled to on account of our short crop, by our own want of foresight and business intelligence. If there had been a union and concert of action between the fruit growers, the market could be regulated, and half a million of dollars more realized from the present crop. All admit the necessity of this concert of action, but with the peculiar perversity of our country and individualism, the great majority of the growers follow their own devices, and go on, year after year, repeating their folly."

Thus are the advantages of our Orange Growers' Protective Union negatively illustrated, and the fact is shown that California oranges will have the market almost their own way after the first of January—at least so far as the domestic supply goes. This also gives emphasis to the fact that the Orange Growers' Protective Union will forward to San Antonio, Tex., to-day, the first shipment of the season, which they have sold, on board the cars, at $2.50 a box, no commissions. Another shipment will be sent East Monday, which realizes the same figure. The present year promises to be a very satisfactory year for orange growers generally. Reports are in of some damage to the Riverside crop by frost, but its extent has not yet been given by the papers of that place. Probably it is not very serious.

THE Citrus Fair Association of Central California will hold its second annual fair at Sacramento, beginning Monday and lasting six days. The Northern Citrus Belt is already bursting with proud anticipation.

Br'er LYNCH's position on the Congressional matter reminds one of the Irishman's hen, which was flopping around with its head cut off. "Yis, sort, it's did, but it donno enough to be sensible as it is."

LAWTON thinks Arizona is safe from further Indian depredations. It won't do to let this be heard in Washington. The troops might be withdrawn from the Territory—and then the danger!

In Der Nacht.
In the night, when silence reigneth,
Sleep and silence utter Truth no more to falsehood's feigneth,
Haste, beloved! The white moon waneeth—
Sleep and dreaming wait on thee.

Through the room doth brightness hover—
Gleam and brightness born of peace—
Hope has found her heart's recovery,
Fair as thou art, snow-pink's cover,
Sleep and dreaming wait on thee.

Brief the night, ah! brief and fleeting;
Closer, red lips, close to mine;
Hope has found her heart's recovery,
Gleam and brightness born of peace—
Sleep and dreaming wait on thee.

In Hot Water.
Riverside Echo: H. M. Beers is a happy man—perhaps he should say a lucky man. It appears that a hot spring was developed (or existed) on his Base Line street property above San Bernardino. A syndicate of citizens of that enterprising burg bought him out, and will erect a large hotel on the property. The interesting part of it to Mr. Beers is that they paid him $20,000 for the place. This is a clear profit of $15,000 to him. Good enough. Motto: Don't be afraid to invest in land, with water, in Southern California. If you can't get cold, take hot water.

Long as the Moral Law.
Prominent citizens of Old San Bernardino, Laguna, etc., have met and united upon the name of "East San Bernardino Valley," the country we were in danger of gobbling up under the name of "East Riverside Extension (or Upper Riverside)." They better incorporate it, or the name may slip out from under their halberd yet.

Rose's Railroad.
Ventura Free Press: At the meeting of the Town Council last night a franchise was granted J. L. Rose, of Los Angeles, to build gas works and lay down gas pipes in the town. Also for a street railroad. A franchise was applied for to lay down water mains in the town, but it was postponed until Saturday night.

A Memorial Collar or Necktie.
Stanley told the Londoners that the best way to keep the wind away from the neck was to wear a collar or necktie. He said that the name that waked the Moslems should seek new huster "neath a cockney's jaw."

"LUM" AND "DOC" CONTINUE THEIR TERRITORIAL PASEO.

A Sheep-Shearing Scene—One Small Cattle-Ranch—A Savage Dog and His Ugly Work—The Confident Coyote.

Monday evening, after two full days at Manuquito, in which time we had acquired another raft of Navajo blankets, etc., we bade farewell to the clever friends there and mounted the east-bound train. As we had left the manito at Flagstaff, so we left the petrified wood at Manuquito, to be caught up on our way home. On the train this evening were Maj. Frew, going back for a visit to his old Ohio home, and Col. J. Wheeler, who was steering for Boston, to old home city he had not seen for I don't know how many years. Mrs. Aldrich and the baby were also going to Manuquito to Kansas on a visit. So we had good company that night as far as we went.

It was too dark to see the ruddy glories of the sandstone mesas which stand in giant phalanx along the north of the valley for a hundred miles. A gentle rain was falling as we stepped off at Coolidge for the evening meal, and we anticipated a little snowfall. I don't know how many years. Mrs. Aldrich and the baby were also going to Manuquito to Kansas on a visit. So we had good company that night as far as we went.

The whole day was one which leaves many a pleasant paragraph in memory's scrap-book. At night we sat in the store and sang until a far off whistle called us to the station, and directly we were again whirling eastward. Simon was going to Bernillo to visit his wife and home from a visit, and the two commercial tourists who had passed the day with him were headed for Albuquerque. We had been on the train since leaving the country, and there was unexpected company aboard.

A gentleman got up from a seat at the front of the car and came back to us. It was Will Damon, from Manuquito. He said an accident had befallen a lady.

The party of gentlemen who had been invited to Manuquito, we went forward to his seat and were horrified to see pretty Mrs. Damon lying there, her left arm bandaged and resting upon a pillow, her face pale and drawn, and her eyes closed.

At about 9 o'clock we tumbled off in the darkness at Grant's, and lo! behind us lay the mountain range, the great reaches of brown grass, the lava-flows. If there is any desolate-looking sight in the whole world, it is a lava country by bright moonlight.

The all-revealing day does not show half the night-time savagery in it. There was a line of lava flow, a black line along that valley of the Rio Puerco of the East, when square miles were seething with molten rock. To-day the petrified floors of those old volcanic lava flows, for miles, banked up twenty feet high.

At about 9 o'clock we tumbled off in the darkness at Grant's, and lo! behind us lay the mountain range, the great reaches of brown grass, the lava-flows. If there is any desolate-looking sight in the whole world, it is a lava country by bright moonlight.

The all-revealing day does not show half the night-time savagery in it. There was a line of lava flow, a black line along that valley of the Rio Puerco of the East, when square miles were seething with molten rock. To-day the petrified floors of those old volcanic lava flows, for miles, banked up twenty feet high.

mind and body. It took superhuman prodding with sharp-pointed poles in the hands of the men to start the cattle out of the open corral door into the chute. By degrees, however, they were thrust out, confused and bleeding, and packed the first compartment of the corral. As soon as a car was emptied they were let into the second yard and thence into the third. They walked with drooping heads and tottering legs. When four or five carloads had been thus forwarded to the third yard, the outer gate of all was opened, swinging them the way to freedom. The two or three nearest the gate would potter out, slowly and suspiciously, till they got beyond the short wingfence and could see the broad acres of brown but nutritious gramma and the little creek. Then what sudden resurrection of drooping spirits; what uplifted heads, what stiffening tails, what shaky-shaking lowings of delight, what weak-kneed bounding which stopped not until each grateful mooly was belly-deep in the cool creek! Catching the voice of thanksgiving the others in the outer yard sallied forth and went through the same process.

They were going to get, and out all the fun they could. Along in the soft twilight, as we were starting out on a little rabbit-hunt, the whole great band was trotting dully down the valley toward the ranch, with vaqueros flashing here and there in the rear as some too exuberant cow or calf galloped out on a tangent, with heels recalcitrant and tail rampant. The Acoma Land and Cattle Company is a considerable institution. It numbers its pasture acres by the mile, and its cattle by the thousand. It had then received 3000 new cattle in a week.

The whole day was one which leaves many a pleasant paragraph in memory's scrap-book. At night we sat in the store and sang until a far off whistle called us to the station, and directly we were again whirling eastward. Simon was going to Bernillo to visit his wife and home from a visit, and the two commercial tourists who had passed the day with him were headed for Albuquerque. We had been on the train since leaving the country, and there was unexpected company aboard.

A gentleman got up from a seat at the front of the car and came back to us. It was Will Damon, from Manuquito. He said an accident had befallen a lady.

The party of gentlemen who had been invited to Manuquito, we went forward to his seat and were horrified to see pretty Mrs. Damon lying there, her left arm bandaged and resting upon a pillow, her face pale and drawn, and her eyes closed.

THE KILGORE CASE.

ARGUMENTS COMMENCED ON BOTH SIDES OF THE CASE.

Testimony in Rebuttal—Luitweller Again on the Stand—Powerful Argument by Mr. Gage—Theory of the Defense.

On the calling of the Kilgore case yesterday, the District Attorney stated that since the last session matters had come to the knowledge of the prosecution which would render it desirable for the defendant to be placed once more upon the stand in relation to a matter which he had testified upon. The defense objected. Objection overruled.

Defendant took the stand, and was asked by the District Attorney whether he did not immediately after the killing state to Mr. Luitweller, in his store, that deceased had been given him a putty knife, and that defendant again objected, on the ground that defendant had been already fully cross-examined. Overruled. Defendant replied that he did not remember having said that. He might have said so. Wasn't sure what was thrown at him altogether.

In rebuttal S. W. LUTWELLER was placed on the stand by the prosecution. In reply to the same question that had been addressed to the defendant in regard to his having said that he had thrown a putty knife, witness believed defendant had said so. Defendant was much excited at the time. (Witness asked if he stated at the preliminary examination words to the same effect. Objected to. Objection sustained.)

MR. GAGE was asked whether he saw any putty cup or brushes thrown on the day of the shooting. To this he replied that there was nothing thrown except the putty knife. In reply to the Court, witness said he must have seen a brush and putty cup thrown if such had been done.

J. E. CLEVELAND sworn. Is a carriage painter. Works at Luitweller's. Was working there at the time of the shooting. Was putting a gear at the time. There were three putty knives in use at the shop. Witness was using one. Couldn't say who was using the others. There was one putty cup and two brushes in use at the shop. Witness was using one. Couldn't say who was using the others. A BAKER'S RUMPS.

Shameful Treatment of an Old Man.
Who had the insolence to work.
Henry Gibson, proprietor of the New Bakery, 241 South Spring street, charged two of his employees—William Miller and William Judge—last Wednesday, on the ground of incompetence. He employed in their place Charles Miller, a man about 55 years of age, who he says is a good worker. The discharged men and the new employee were all members of the Bakery Union. About 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon Miller received a notice from the president of the Bakery Union notifying him to appear once and answer charges which had been preferred against him. Miller did not comply with the order for the reason that he was busy and could not leave his work.

About 11 o'clock Thursday night the disgruntled bakers, Weber and Judge, made a descent on the bakery when Miller was at work and beat him in a shameful manner. His face is battered beyond recognition, and his injuries are so serious as to prevent him from working.

Mr. Gibson feels highly indignant at the treatment given him and his help, and thinks that if the Bakery Union is responsible for it the procedure is not likely to increase its strength or usefulness.

THE BAZAAR.
THE SPANISH-AMERICAN EVENING AT MOTT HALL.

A Tremendous Success, Which Over Fifteen Hundred Visitors View With Vivid Enjoyment—The Programme—Notes.

Former nights had been thought successful in the Bazaar of Nations, but last evening capped the climax. The big hall was literally jammed and progress in any direction was difficult. By actual count at the door the attendance was 1540—which is big for any entertainment. The evening's entertainment was in charge of the Spanish-American bazaar managers, Mrs. Col. Vernon, Don and Doña Antonio F. Coronel—and there was a large attendance of Spanish-Americans gaily dressed and full of enthusiasm. After the grand march, which was accompanied with difficulty on account of the crowd, the stage was given over to the performers and a very interesting programme was rendered.

The first number was the Mexican National Air, sung by a chorus consisting of the Señoras Gonzales, the Señoras Balade, Señora Castillon, Señora Arzaga, Castillon and Andrade and Señora Arzaga. Number two was "La Jota," a popular song of the Spanish bull-fight, sung by Señora Arzaga as piano, with Señora Arzaga.

Next came a Havana duet, by the Señoras Gonzales.

A Mexican popular song, by the Señoras Balade, was next on the programme.

"La Golandina" was then sung by the chorus above.

The sixth and seventh numbers were the most charming and most applauded of the whole pleasing programme. Don Antonio F. Coronel, a gallant gentleman whose beauty and nine summers' youth upon a form still endowed with all the activity and grace of youth, led out upon the stage Señora J. Castillon; and the couple danced that famous Spanish dance, "El Jarabe," with wonderful effectiveness. The music, especially adapted for the occasion by Prof. Arzaga, was furnished by Señora Arzaga, Arzaga and Castillon as guitarists. The dancers then went through the evolutions of "El Joleo," which was immensely enjoyed.

The programme over, the huge audience wandered around among the booths buying bric-a-brac, sipping coffee and sherbert with the Turks, devouring continental doughnuts, drinking lemonade from Rebecca's fair fingers, sweetened with lemon and sugar, or refrigerating with ice creams among the lovely leaders.

The flower booth, in the center of the hall, continues deservedly to be a center of attraction. Mrs. T. J. Weldon is manager, and her assistants are Mrs. Littlejohn, Miss Jennie Severns, Miss Clara Severns, Miss Sue Geller and Miss Ada Barrows. The booth is very beautiful in design and decoration, and its floral wares are correspondingly tasteful.

By 10:30, when many departures had largely lightened the crowd, there was much good singing in the modern American and Continental booths; and still later, much impromptu dancing.

The balloting for various preferences goes on apace. For the gold-headed cane to the most popular bazaar, the vote last night stood as follows: Bonbrake 251, Hellman 198, Spencer 173, Slater 40, Bryson 17, Boyce 17.

For the chair to the most popular young lady, Dr. Rebecca Doney had 266 votes, and Miss Alice Severns 72.

For the fine pair of vases to the most popular lady, the vote stood as follows: Mrs. J. Woodworth 288, Mrs. John Bryson 290, Mrs. A. F. Coronel 198, Mrs. W. Woodworth 82, Mrs. Hummiller 41, Mrs. Dr. Burbank 28, Mrs. Fountain 10.

TO-NIGHT there will be a grand auction from 7 to 8, where every one will have the best possible chance to buy charming articles "for keeps" or for Christmas gifts. The crowd, the grand march itself will worth coming to see—after which Mrs. Caswell's brigade of lovely young ladies will go through of flag-drill. The evening will wind up with a grand dance, which will—it is safe to predict—be very extensively attended.

NOTES.
The ice-cream booth took $87.75 yesterday.

Col. M. R. Vernon made an imposing Spanish grandee.

To-night will be the last and best of the Bazaar. Take it in.

The Postoffice did a rushing business, as its really elegant wares deserve.

E. L. Entler was present again as "Uncle Sam," and made an admirable one.

The elegant lunch set by the ladies from 11:30 to 2, daily, took in $73.50 yesterday.

Miss Whaley unkindly cut Pocahontas last night. Her admirable impersonation was much missed.

A new Indian was in the field last night. It was Jesus Rodriguez, and he appeared in the role of a reservation Apache.

One of the finest and most elegantly dressed characters in the hall was a new one, last night, the Gracie Green. A most imposing figure. G. A. Robinson was the able clerk, and played his part to perfection.

Funny, but Fact.
A wide-awake correspondent signing himself "Quiz" writes:

A little incident happened the other day that strikes me as being not only funny, but decidedly pointed. A lady was reading the Herald, turning to her husband, she asked: "My dear, is Mr. Lynch at home?" "No," said the husband, "he's in 'Prisco'."

"Well," said she, "I thought he was away. Whenever he's from home, the paper always reads like he was Democratic." Not thinking that she had said anything of special note, she continued her reading, utterly oblivious of the fact that she had said one of the truest and best things that have been uttered of Lynch for many a day. Quiz.

An Officer's Horse Stolen.
About 8 o'clock last night Petrolin Jackson tied his horse on Sainevein street while he attended to some business, and when he returned about ten minutes later the animal was gone. Investigation developed the fact that Officer Rogers saw a man riding the horse down Spring street near First a few moments after its disappearance from Sainevein. Rogers recognized the animal and noticed that the hitching rope was dragging, to which he called the attention of the rider. Supposing that Jackson had loaned the horse to the rider, he made no attempt to interfere with him. The animal is a large black "single-foot" pacer and is valued at $300.

Railroad Notes.
(Riverside Echo.)

The railroad grade is about finished to the vicinity of South Riverside. The laying of track is to commence immediately. Powder has come down the road sufficient to blast away 180,000 cubic yards of rock in the cañon. The great work progresses merrily.

(San Bernardino County.)
Grading was going on yesterday on the new railroad at the corner of Third street. The Messrs. Grant have established a camp about half a mile beyond Little Creek. They have half a dozen large camps on the Santa Ana road, and will, we fancy, have something to say when the moment arrives to commence grading on the San Bernardino and East San Bernardino roads. Certainly they must have the most organized and perfect principles to conduct so many lines of operation so successfully.

PATTI.
Reasonable Prospect of Her Visiting Los Angeles.

Marcus M. Mayer, acting manager for Henry E. Abbey in charge of Adelina Patti's impending tour, thinks of dropping off here on his way to San Francisco and giving one performance, probably January 15th. He is in doubt whether there are enough people in Los Angeles to pay the prices he says he must charge in an opera house of no greater seating capacity than ours—namely, as at Galveston, $10, $7, $5, $3, and $2.50. He has written to Mr. Childs and others, and if sufficiently encouraged will make an engagement here.

Normal Adelphians.
This society held a very interesting meeting in the Normal Library last evening. The following programme was rendered: Base Solo—Herbert Williams. Reading—A. G. Van Gorder. Declaration—F. Badham. Violin Solo—Duff Williams. Oration—Ira More, Jr. Reading—L. W. Walker. Quartette—Messrs. Crothers, Skilling, Bickly and Peters. Remarks—A. Guidinger. Declaration—Lee Gray. Instrumental Duet—Messrs. Levering and Collins.

ANOTHER MONTECRISTO

THE TREASURE FOUND BY A TRAMP

In a California Cavern—Lugging off a Fortune Under the Very Eyes of the Residents, Nearly—The Story of the Brig San José.

(Kansas City Journal.)

About two and a half years since there arrived in the city of San Luis Obispo a stranger whose appearance indicated a severe and prolonged struggle with the fickle goddess. Out of a shock of matted hair peered two eyes of remarkable sharpness, and a face of wonderful shrewdness formed a rare picture for frame-work of tawny locks. The finances of this rara avis (says the San Francisco Examiner) were doubtless in a condition similar to the appearance of his wardrobe. Instead, therefore, of soliciting entertainment at one of the numerous hostleries for which that city is famous, this social conundrum wisely concluded to maintain his independence by following strictly the rules of the wandering fraternity, of which he appeared a most exemplary member. He sought the silent shadows of the unbragging oak, and under its whispering foliage consumed the substantial provender he had diplomatically seduced from the back door of a convenient farm house. His peculiar appearance, and the untimely created considerable comment among those who observed him, and many were the surmises as to his previous condition of servitude and present intentions.

He remained in the vicinity of the city for several days, and then took up his residence at Avila, a small hamlet on the sea-shore about nine miles from San Luis Obispo. While here the major portion of his time was spent in the examination of old charts of the coast line from Point Conception northward. These documents were kept in a strong leather pouch, which he guarded with the utmost vigilance. One day he appeared at a neighboring lumber yard and purchased sufficient material for the construction of a small skiff. This, he informed the curious, was for the purpose of enabling him to engage in the occupation of a fisherman. The diminutive craft was soon completed, but instead of embarking in his proposed avocation he spent the hours of daylight in exploring the small bays and indentations of the coast. On being asked the motives for every exploration he was more than usually reticent. At length he gratified the curiosity of his inquirers by informing them that he was in search of a convenient spot suitable for a fish-drying establishment. This explanation was accepted by many, but the knowing ones regarded it as merely a subterfuge. At length the regular disappearance of the stranger in one certain direction convinced the observant that the desired location had at last been selected. One morning he was seen to be unmoored his skiff as usual and departed for the scene of his labors. For several days he was not seen in any of his old haunts, and those who had watched his regular departure and return grew alarmed, and determined to organize an expedition to inquire into the cause of his prolonged absence. One of the residents of Avila, however, asserted that he had seen the stranger beach his boat every evening for several miles below the accustomed landing place. It was also asserted by this gentleman that the stranger upon landing always disappeared in a neighboring canyon, bearing upon his shoulders some apparently heavy substance concealed in a sack.

This information, while it relieved the apprehension regarding the safety of the tramp, aroused the curiosity of many, who determined to at least pay a visit of inspection to the stranger's rendezvous. Preparations for the visit were nearly completed, when the object of their solicitude made his reappearance among them. After expressing his obligations to the citizens of Avila for their uniform interest in his sojourn among them, the stranger expressed his determination to desert those scenes amid which, he assured them, he had passed many pleasant hours. His boat he left as a souvenir, and after a courteous farewell disappeared over the range. Previous to his departure, however, he had bought a small Spanish jackass for the purpose, he informed them, of departing from the country in a more genteel manner than he had entered it.

On the day of his departure one of the residents of Avila was returning from San Luis, and encountered the quondam tramp leading his burro, which appeared to be laden with some extremely heavy substance. The information rekindled the curiosity of the Avilans, and a party was organized for the purpose of exploring the coast line and discovering, if possible, the late residence of the departed guest. They departed in a small boat and were soon engaged in closely scrutinizing the inlets of the coast. At length the attention of one of the party was attracted by the appearance of numerous footprints in the sand near the base of an inaccessible cliff. He at once drew the attention of his companions to his discovery and they determined to disembark and follow up the clew. Upon nearing the cliff a small circular opening was observed about three feet from the ground. The footprints led directly to this opening, and there were lost. From this it was, of course, apparent that an entrance to the cave—if one existed—was necessary to a solution to the mystery. Accordingly a messenger was dispatched for the purpose of securing some method of illumination. He soon returned, and a party entered the cave. A short passage opened into a lofty, circular cavern about eighty feet in diameter. Its internal appearance was extremely forbidding, and it was impossible to conceive how any human being could have selected it as a place of abode. The floor was composed of sand and sea shells that had evidently been recently disturbed. In one corner of the cave was discovered a cavity some three feet in depth, apparently excavated but a short time before. Among the debris were discovered several Spanish copper coins, none of which bore a date later than 1750. Near the cavity the framework of a seaman's chest, in the last stages of decay was found, and there was also picked up the muddled pages of a vessel's log-book. These discoveries, as may be imagined, excited to its most intense degree the curiosity of the explorers. In the midst of an animated discussion regarding the solution of the mystery, one of the party chanced to glance upward at the hanging walls, and there rudely sculptured in the basalt ceiling, was the following:

Barque tres varas al sur aquil. S. 30° W. 100 varas. Octubre 1770. rinoero.

By a logical deduction from the circumstances connected with the discovery of the inscription, those portions erased by the action of the elements may be supplied as follows: Dig three paces to the south. Wrecked here in the month of October, 1770, the ship San José.

The surprise of the party was, of course, intensified by the discovery of this inscription, for it lent color to the assumption that treasure had been unearthed by the supposed tramp, and carried off under their very eyes. Further exploration disclosed nothing, however, and to this day the identity of the discoverer of the buried treasure has not been revealed. The possessor of the log book, however, who is a resident of Oakland, has for some time past been endeavoring to translate its contents, but his unfamiliarity with maritime Spanish and the badly preserved condition of the document has proved a severe trial. After severe and continuous study, however, the following pertinent facts have been evolved:

On June 16, 1769, the brig San José, with materials for the establishment of the Alta California Mission, under command of José de Galvez, set sail for the port of San Francisco, California. Besides the usual articles used for bartering purposes with the aborigines, the vessel contained 10,000 Spanish doubloons and a large amount of silver. The logbook contained entries up to July 19, 1769, and at that date all records ceased.

The Prettiest Clerk in Washington.

(Omaha Herald.) It is said that the prettiest girl in the employ of the government is a copyist at the Navy Department. This is saying a good deal, as about 4000 women hold positions in Washington, and probably 2000 more in other parts of the country are receiving salaries from Uncle Sam. Some of the "Countesses," as the girls employed in the Treasury are called, are very pretty, but the beauty of the Navy is claimed to be entitled to the appellation of Paris. She is a niece of our Minister to England, Phelps, and her family reside in this city. For about four years the young lady has been employed as a typewriter in the office of Commodore Walker, the Chief of the Bureau of Detail, receiving a salary of $900 a year. She is a dark-eyed blonde with a beautiful figure, and the officers of the navy are all her devoted slaves. She was so much interrupted in her work by them, that Commander McCalla in whose room she is, was compelled to prohibit the officers from interviewing her in department hours, and got a large screech behind which her attractions are now hidden. If the commander leaves the room for a moment there is certain to be some bold young tar about the building run in for a chat with the beauty, and when McCalla returns the culprit is profuse in his excuses. The number of officers who have typewritten to be done is astonishing, and they all want to superintend the work. The young lady does not appear to be aware of her attractions, but cannot but notice that the other typewriters are not in such demand as herself. When she leaves the department at night there are generally two or more officers accidentally waiting in the corridor. She court her safely down the elevator and see her to the street car.

Gould's Daughter-in-Law.

(Town Topics.) Mr. Jay Gould has become a willing victim to his pretty daughter-in-law, nee Edith Kingston. She keeps the family in roars of laughter, and Jay Gould declares she is just the element he needed in his home. Her stories of her adventures in the different theatrical companies on the same railroads over which she now travels in grand style, are very funny given, and the contrast she draws between the then and now is the source of constant merriment. "They are indeed wonderful roads," she said the other day. "I'd like to own the whole system." Whereupon Papa Gould made her a present of $12,500 worth of stock, with the remark: "I can't give you all of them, but here's a little piece."

Eastern Shore Girls as Gunners.

(Cambridge News.) Quite a novel and striking sight was witnessed by a rider on the Blackwater road, on Thursday last, in the form of a gunning party composed of both ladies and gentlemen. The ladies looked perfectly at home with their guns on their shoulders, and seemed to handle them with as much skill as did the gaily equipped gentlemen. Each face beamed with delight as the held aloft the string of partridges so lately brought low. The gentlemen were laden with bunches of bright autumn leaves and bright red berries gathered from the woods near by, and as they gaily tramped along, followed by the beautiful bird dogs, Beppo and Leo, belonging to Dr. Carroll, it looked quite picturesque, and outwitted the gypsies who have so lately been among us.

Chester Allan Arthur. He should be made to live's full span. Who played as well his noble part. Too soon fate snatched from manly heart. That kind and courteous gentleman. Yet in the press of bolder favors That sun-josied honor still may live. If love, if good men's praise may give A lasting place to stainless fame. —(New York Sun.)
